Keyboard macro software allows you to create keyboard shortcuts. Creating keyboard shortcuts in a program is incredibly simple: create a macro, assign it a keyboard shortcut and you're done. Keyboard macros allow you to create any sequence of keyboard commands using a keyboard shortcut. Once you have created a macro, you can trigger it at any time by pressing the assigned keyboard shortcut. Keyboard macros make your life much easier as you can trigger common tasks or programs with a single keystroke. The best way to use macros is to create a macro to open a program or to start an application and give it a name. For example, you can create a keyboard shortcut for Internet Explorer with the title "Internet Explorer" and assign it a keyboard shortcut of CTRL+I. As you browse the web, you can use your keyboard to open web pages as quickly as you can type in your web browser. You can also launch programs and move files and folders with a keyboard shortcut. You can also create macros that perform other common operations, such as copy and paste. Macro's can be used to improve your workflow, make programs and tasks quicker and make your work more efficient. Keyboard macros are compatible with all major operating systems, including Windows, OS X, Linux and most mobile devices. Keyboard macros are integrated into all major programs. You can also download free apps that allow you to create keyboard macros. See more Mac applications at KeyMACRO is a powerful and user-friendly keyboard macro software for Windows.
