Download from XDA The Fofollow link at the bottom of the post. Instructions below.This tutorial is specifically for those who don't know how to change the IMEI. Part 1:This tutorial is not intended for those who already know how to change the IMEI.Do not Download the Full New Firmware. You will only download and extract the firmware contents.Never download FULL firmware. Download only the firmware files that are needed to unlock your Huawei Device.For all the other devices, look for them here (only for the Chinese market): They are inside the folder BLDR3.1. Extract the Firmware

FOB2.1.exe inside this folder.After installation, you will find a new folder inside the C:\Program Files\BLDR3.1\ folder.Open this folder and look for BLDR3.1. You will find the BIOS (Firmware) file of your device inside this folder. Save this file in the root of your USB drive. It is named FOB2.1.Save your BIOS file to a USB key. How to Install the BIOS file (Firmware) on your device:IMPORTANT: To get the Full Bootloader you need to have a bootloader. If you do not have a bootloader you need to get it from the manufacturer or here: To find your bootloader firmware, go to system settings. Then go to "About this phone". You will find the phone model number and you should find the bootloader firmware.Just connect your Huawei Device to your PC, connect a USB cable and open the BIOS file (Firmware) that you have just downloaded. Then press on "BOOT". (There may be other things that appear in the bottom of the display. These are not necesary to unlock your Huawei Device. Just press on "BOOT" and then your device will load the bootloader firmware).Now press on "Yes" and you will see an option to enter the bootloader. This is the moment of the BIOS (F 2d92ce491b
