The show, which opens Friday, November 10, displays a fantastic selection of works from the Japanese avant-garde, the all-women collective NO ROOM (NIKAGI SHIMAJI NO ROOM), as well as many delightful pieces by some of my favourite artists from Japan, including Ryoko Moriyama, Tomoko Yamada, Atsuko Tanaka, Noriko Terasawa, Issey Miyake, Akihide Honma and more. The exhibition was curated by Mr. Masami Ito, a Japanese curator based in Vancouver and currently working on a PhD thesis at the University of British Columbia. His choice of artists was particularly impressive: he presented the works of artists I'd been eager to see and some that I'd never even heard of before. I was particularly excited to see his choice of Yamada's colorful and playful Nippon Bijin ("Fetishist"). I've been following the interesting work of this young artist since I spotted her work in the Biennale in Venice in 2004. I'd never seen a picture of her work before and thought it was wonderful. And the piece he selected is simply stunning: an ironic reinterpretation of the classic Buster Keaton silent comedy, THE GENERAL. It's almost a little too big to take in at 2d92ce491b
