Run Macro on Multiple Files Traditionally, Macros cannot be used on multiple files. In this case, you need to run them manually. However, the Smart Macro allows you to run Macros automatically and repetitively. You will see the option when the Macro name contains the "&" symbol. Using the Macro method, you can run macros on multiple files, so it has the ability to expand its usability. Smart Macro saves you a lot of time. All you need to do is to add an existing Macro in the smart macro field, set the working directory and macro name, and then you can start the process. Smart Macro also saves your time when you want to edit the Macro. You can find the Macro in the Edit Macro dialog. If you want to use a macro that has already been run before, you can click "Copy from Previous Run". Smart Macro also helps you to reduce waste of time when you need to run macros on thousands of files. You can use the Save macro button and save the Macro as a template. Smart Macro is very useful for example when you have files that share similar text. Using the "Copy from previous run" feature, you can run the macro to find and replace the text in files with all similar text. Smart Macro is also used to simplify the
