What's New In?

CounterOffer is a eBay monitoring utility that works in the background to automatically bid on selected items. It allows you to check eBay for offers and accept or decline them, based on the price you set and minimum value. If an offer value is lower than the minimum you specify, it instantly accepts the offer and bids the price that you specified. Publisher Description The eBay Monitoring Utility allows you to monitor the value of items in your auction and bid on the same items, when the user clicks the button. The eBay Monitoring Utility automatically adjusts its value and will accept the highest bid. The eBay Monitoring Utility is free to use and you can bid and monitor the eBay auctions from one single program. Trial Version If you don't like the trial version, you can register it for free and install the application. The interface has a clean and user-friendly design, which can easily be learned. The software quickly checks eBay for new offers and automatically bids on them. The program can monitor both your own or any other eBay accounts. The program also allows you to define certain bidding rules and save them for future auctions. However, the program doesn't offer very many configuration options. These settings can only be changed within the eBay account that you are logged into. The program doesn't support several auction features. You can't block users from bidding and monitor their offers. You can't set the minimum bid price, only the minimum value percentage. The application doesn't offer a desktop shortcut. When you have your auctions and users on a lot, the software helps you keep track of them all. The software doesn't have a log function. The software doesn't have an integrated e-mail function. It doesn't allow you to set custom bid values. The utility doesn't offer a simple, graphical auction console. The software doesn't have any features that automatically update the eBay auction status. The auction consoles have a clean and simple design, which can be easily used. This software can be used to monitor the value of your auctions.
