Attendance tracking is no easy task, and it's made even harder when many employees share the same equipment and check in from different locations at work. TimeClockFree provides the solution, giving employers a way to handle the situation by creating a centralized dashboard where workers clock in and out. With the online clock-in/out function, your employees can clock in, out, and collect their paycheck at the same time, saving you time on checking up on everyone. You can easily keep track of shifts and time-off requests, assign jobs to people, allow for unlimited employees and multiple shifts, send alerts to notify you when a person clocks in or out, send out a weekly or monthly schedule to manage time off, and view and update payroll records. The online clock-in/out function is available for both Android and iOS devices. On a PC, it can be downloaded from Google Play and iTunes. Key features: - Attendance tracking - Graphical dashboard for management and payroll - Admin access only - Online clock-in/out for both Android and iOS devices - Configurable alert system - Unlimited number of employees and shifts TimeClockFree Description: TimeClockFree provides an easy-to-use dashboard for managing your shifts and making it easy to book time off. It keeps track of employees' attendance and sends out automatic alerts when someone is late or absent. With the attendance tracking feature, TimeClockFree can track employees' clocking in and out by providing them with a dedicated online system. This is an online portal which allows them to clock in or out using the official TimeClockFree app on their smartphones or tablets. Employers will be able to check the attendance of their employees, view their scheduled shifts, send out automatic reminders for time off and more. The app will also notify the employee of the time they need to leave. Users can be assigned to shifts in a scheduling system that will automatically update as the shift changes, and will send out automatic reminders when they need to clock out. There is an option to create an unlimited number of shifts, and the users will be given the ability to set their own clocking in/out times. The attendance tracking feature of TimeClockFree is based on a GPS-based system. This means that the employees will have to register their unique device with the app using their unique log-in ID and password. The app will then track their location.
