Kindly provide me download link, where I can get DIGTRX for free. Today I read that South African broadcast tender for a new DRM system is cancelled. South African Broadcasting Corporation already has a DRMSystem that works great. The authorities should have published this info earlier. Now we are having the same bunch of money and time wasted over again! The best option would be to offer a second bid at a similar or lower amount. See the difference and choose for the best system. Today I read that South African broadcast tender for a new DRM system is cancelled. South African Broadcasting Corporation already has a DRMSystem that works great. Some of the South African Broadcasting Corporation's external services are now transferred to the government. Radio stations in the Gauteng Province also run their own DRMSystems that work great. I just found out that there is a super cheap offer for DXpeditions on DXMM. It is currently up to $189, and normally $549. It is probably one of the cheapest DXpedition available. Several low priced equipment are offered. As a matter of fact, their prices range from $5 for a lapel mic up to $1000 for their ATU/NX5000 "System". The DXMM entry fee is also $180 for 2016. If you are planning on getting multiple licenses, Dxpeditions page states that the costs could be as high as $1100 per person. It does not include registration for

What's New In?

It works with Win CE, Windows 95/98/NT/Me/2000, Windows CE devices, Linux, MacOS 9/X and Symbian OS. It can be run as a stand-alone application or embedded in your application. DIGTRX is Freeware, it's free to use. You can download and use it with no charges. DIGTRX Details: Capture and record AM, CW, HF and HF DX, FM, and RTTY voices, stations,... As HSDT, I have been busy doing a complete programming, bug fixing and review on DIGTRX 2.4, the current version. DIGTRX has gotten a bunch of new features such as: - A new self-named soundfile format (XM, FQM, etc.); - It can record now from a memory based station buffer rather than using internal memory; - A new design for the Windows 98/NT/2000/ME/Windows CE/MacOS 9/X version; - A new design for the WinCE version to optimize for smaller memory footprints and to simplify coding; - Several new features in the WinCE version; - A new feature in the WinCE version to control both PC microphone and WinCE microphone; - Some bug fixes; - Some improvements (eg. SetTransmitter command). What's next? I plan to finalize the package for the ST-200 in mid-September.... DigiTrans is a radio program that allows you to record Voice, CW, Sound Transmit (ST) and Digital Voice (DV) or other types of Radiograms into a PC. DigiTrans will allow you to capture the same files used in ST (such as voice) but will avoid the problems of porting a DV recording to ST due to the different sound file standards. DigiTrans is simple to use and requires little effort from you (it can read scripts from a file). Besides DX recording, the program can record sound files from a PC (such as from a PC Speech-To-Text Engine or an Windows sound file), allowing you to transcribe the text (or speech) on a PC.
