As said, JSON is basically used for "transferring" data between applications, this is done using an HTTP request. On the server side, you do not use JSON unless you do a "POST" request. A "POST" request is a request that is expected to change something on the server. It changes something on the server by sending data to the server. In short, it is used to transfer data between an HTTP client and server. JSON is a common request type in a "POST" request. JSON is a light-weight data serialization format. It takes a text based format and serializes it into a compressed binary format. The compression is done in a unique way which is more compatible with internet connections.
