Graphics programs for creating artwork When you're working with graphics, vector graphics programs are generally your ticket to getting the best results. Take a look at the programs shown in Table 5-2 for creating artwork that you can work with. As you can see, almost all of the graphics programs listed in Table 5-2 are vector programs. They create artwork using mathematical definitions of shapes and text. Vector graphics means that you can zoom in, distort, and scale the artwork without affecting the appearance. (In the next chapter we explain how vector graphics work.)

I hope you are enjoying the summer. The new school year is approaching and many parents are getting their kids ready for school. Whether you're working with your kids or are volunteering, you will want to create a "graduation" montage to commemorate the ending of their school year. In this montage, I have selected a number of clipart images that can be used as decoration or to add color to a school graduation photo montage. Some of these clipart images include some of the important achievements or memorabilia that your child collected throughout the year. Graduation Clipart You'll need Adobe Photoshop Elements, which can be downloaded from the Adobe website. I have used the Teal Graduation clipart as an example, but you can do the same with the other clipart images below. Please note that all pictures, unless otherwise noted, can be purchased directly from the Adobe Clip Art Store. Steps 1.

Open a new image,
